Keeping Florida women covered after postpartum Medicaid ends

If you're a Florida woman age 14-55 who is losing Medicaid postpartum coverage, you still have coverage for up to 2 years through Florida's Family Planning Waiver (FPW) program!

✓ FPW covers primary care services like:

- Physical exam
- STI testing/treatment
- Preconception care, counseling, and labs
- Birth control (pill, patch, ring, Depo, implant, IUD)
- Tubal ligation
- Pap smears/pap follow-up
- Pregnancy tests

✓ You should also know:

- If you've lost Florida Medicaid postpartum coverage, you don't have to do anything to enroll in FPW! You were automatically enrolled in FPW coverage at 12 months and 1 day postpartum. You can confirm your enrollment by logging into MyACCESS, or calling (850)300-4323.
- After 12 months of FPW coverage, your eligibility will be redetermined. If you're still eligible, you can get another 12 months of FPW coverage!
- You can get your care anywhere that offers family planning and related services and accepts Medicaid coverage.

For questions about FPW, call 1-877-254-1055.
